From the CEO's Table

This year again had quite a few firsts for QMed.

2017-18 was an eventful year for QMed. We took part in 30 lectures and workshops, reaching out to over 1700 participants. 2017 earmarked our first international workshop in Myanmar between 10th and 11th November. A lot of good workshops came our way - a workshop for Chest specialists, organized by a group from the American Thoracic Society and another for nursing personnel at MGM medical college. Then, we recorded our first E-Learning (Online) course this year.

We had a couple of very special events this year. At MECOR - a workshop organized by a group of committed physician volunteers of the American Chest Society, I mentored several participants, with their literature searches for their research projects. This happened over four days in Bangalore. And I also conducted a workshop for the first time for the Campbell Collaboration, on searching for studies for a systematic review. Yet another was a workshop for MBBS students at the Smt Kashibai Navale Medical College, Pune, where the students took the initiative for organizing the event.

An interesting lecture event was, when I gave a talk on "Access & Usage: Delivering the Best of both" at the BMJ Conclave 2017: Evolving trends in librarianship in India, organized by BMJ India. This was attended by medical librarians from all over the country. And in a good turn of events, GlobalGiving also gave us a lot of recognition this year- something we are very happy about.

A very exciting development this year was when we integrated Danamojo – a donation gateway in our website. Now a donor can donate online and instantly get a receipt with the tax exemption.

Read on to know more about what we've been up to this year!

SPECIAL LECTURE

Vasumathi Sriganesh delivered a two hour lecture at the Smt. Kashibai Navale Medical College and General Hospital on September 12. What was special about this? The invitation came from the UG Student Research Forum - a team dedicated to promoting research activities amongst undergraduate medical students and sensitizing/educating them about research. Some of them had attended our workshop through Quest and took the initiative to have a lecture at their institution. In no time at all they got the event organized, and had a whopping audience of 130 UG students! Subsequently the organizing team reported that they had many inquiries from students about how they could do small research projects. That was indeed encouraging! The organizing team - Aditya, Dyuti and friends add that they could not do this without the support of the SRF Faculty, Dr. P.S. Chawla - Head Community Medicine Dept, Dr. R.S. Bangal - Dean and Dr. A.V. Bhore - Medical Director. We at QMed are also very grateful for the support of the faculty and authorities!

QMed PARTICIPATES

QMed participated in a number of other activities between 2017 and 2018. Some of them were

- The Huddle, organized by UnLtd India, an organization that had mentored us in the year 2010-11, and helped us get very focused in our goals and activities on 6th April
- MLA - Annual Meeting of the Medical Library Association, USA - May 27-31
- Workshop for NGOs organized by Daan Utsav & Guidestar India on 24th July
- A workshop on Board Governance organized by the Centre for Advancement of Philanthropy on the 8th of August. The workshop elaborated upon the constituents of law and what comprise "must do" activities for a nonprofit board. The participants also got recommendations on how to have a good board and to get the best out of the same.
- Workshop on Fundraising organized by Danamojo. It was a learning experience, where participants got to do hands on activities to get started on a number of fund raising ideas! There were a range of perspectives on fundraising - from the view points of experienced NGOs to the view points of donors. The founder also offered to comment on the "Donation" page of NGOs who were looking for feedback, and the comments / ideas were so good, that we could implement some of them the next day. The best part was that the Danamojo platform was demonstrated very briefly, but that was more than enough for an NGO to learn why they should immediately have this platform up on their website. We will have the platform on our site very soon, making it much easier for donors to give.
- Workshop on Fundraising, organized by GlobalGiving USA - 19 Sep 2017. A fun event where Mrs. Sriganesh got to meet Paige Creigh from GG USA - someone we only have known through emails. Paige and her colleague from India - Kavita Mathew together helped NGO participants plan out well for fundraising activities and also explained nuances of the GlobalGiving website.
- In an informal participation, Mrs. Sriganesh attended the Tenth Anniversary event of Arpan - an NGO that works on the sensitive issue of prevention of Child Sexual Abuse. Arpan's vision is to have a world free of Child Sexual Abuse. Their mission is to empower individuals, families, communities and society with prevention and intervention skills to reduce the occurrence of child sexual abuse and heal its psychological, social, sexual and physical consequences.
- Mrs. Sriganesh and Ms. Parvati Iyer attended a workshop by Campbell Collaboration, on Feb 5-7, 2018. The Campbell Collaboration - a worldwide network encourages authoring of systematic reviews and evidence gap maps. This workshop gave a detailed overview of both types of publications. QMed is working with the India office of the Campbell Collaboration to see how we can help with search strategies and training related to the same. The workshop was conducted by two "Evidence Synthesis Specialists" - Dr. Denny John and Dr. Ashrita Saran. It was a wonderful opportunity to learn.
- Half Day Workshop on High Impact Presentation Skills, organized by BKC Knowledge Network & Bai Ratanbai Gharda Memorial Library. Many librarians from various Mumbai libraries made brief presentations about their libraries. Dr Dhanashree Date, a librarian by training, gave a great talk on how to make high impact presentations.
- Mrs. Sriganesh was invited to conduct a book discussion on the book - 'The Librarian', authored by Kavitha Rao, at the Nehru Center Library on 22nd March, 2018. A work of fiction, the book highlighted the problems of public libraries and the decreasing reading culture, which obviously has a spillover to several areas of education and research. Public libraries and the reading culture need a strong boost!

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS

- Two representatives from GlobalGiving, USA, where we raise funds for QMed, visited our office and also the KEM Hospital where the Dean, Dr Avinash Supe, some faculty members and students talked to them, and conveyed their appreciation of QMed's work.
- Mrs. Sriganesh attended the Annual Conference of the Medical Library Association, USA which is an event for lots of learning and updates
- Mrs. Sriganesh gave special lectures at an event organized by the BMJ, the Annual Conference of the Association of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons and some more
- QMed's PubMed workshop went International - in collaboration with The Union, we conducted the first International Workshop at Mandalay, Myanmar
- And finally, at the end of 2017, we incorporated the Danamojo - a payment solutions platform for Fundraising on our website. For Indian donors, the process of giving a donation is now really simple. One can donate using a debit or credit card, do a bank transfer or even have a cheque picked up - just by filling in details on the Danamojo platform. The debit and credit card options will work for International donors too, but we recommend that these donors use the GlobalGiving option.

CHALLENGES

- We started the 100 PGs initiative in Jan 2017, where we raised funds to subsidize workshops plus mentoring for 100 PG students for their theses. We have been able to finish the workshops for 47 so far, and still need to conduct them for more. Several factors contributed to the slow progress. One was the residents strike in March, then the availability of venues with good Internet connections, and the availability of PGs on days other than Sundays. We are hopefully working towards completing the numbers this year, at the earliest.
- Funds, are still a challenge. The work we do is “change making” and not for an underprivileged target. The general public does not understand that this too requires a lot of funds, and they believe that our beneficiaries are in a position to pay for what they gain from us. The health professionals and students have not been able to prioritize the learning we offer, as they can still get away with any literature searching they do. Or, they expect that their institutions should pay for them to learn. Institutions have most often not figured from which budget they should pay us! Most importantly when what we teach is not still made an important need in the curriculum, everything else falls behind.
- Institutions have the right intentions in that they wish to hold workshops for their students. However, despite so many participants wishing that our courses become integrated with the curriculum, what we teach is not given the importance it deserves. There is still a misconception that searching and sourcing the correct information from the jumble out there is something that everyone “just does”. They do not know that there is a structured method and needs to be taught

On a more pleasant note, our good work and it’s recognition by GlobalGiving seems to be taking us ahead in the right direction. We had a site visit by Ms Kavita Mathew who works for GlobalGiving from India, and coaches and advises several nonprofits in India, which have a presence on GlobalGiving. We also had a peer mentoring from a person from another Indian nonprofit - Mr Venkat Ramakrishnan. Thanks to these, our scores on GlobalGiving have shot up, making our visibility much higher and thus attracting more chances of raising funds.
